MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

In October our strategy performance was slightly up, although the pace has slowed down. In the United States, we are seeing the beginning of a spread widening in the credit markets after more than a year of inactiveness following the Fed's purchases. High inflation, combined with a decline in the US, a stronger dollar and higher rates, is creating a difficult environment for EM Credit. According to many investors, the US Federal Reserve was too slow to tighten monetary policy and should announce a reduction in market purchases by the end of the year.
